

A photograph of a sailboat deck at sunset. The sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm, golden glow over the scene. The deck is white with various pieces of equipment, including a silver light fixture and a dark rectangular panel. The rigging and ropes of the sailboat are visible, extending towards the mast. The ocean is visible in the background, with a clear horizon line. The text "Tall Ships" is overlaid in white on the right side of the image, with a small orange horizontal line above the word "Tall".
